BERNARD SHAW TELLS LIFE-STORY.

A FAMILY STUDY.

A BORN COMMUNIST'S FIFTY-FOUR YEARS IN LONDON.

Mr. Shaw has stolen a march upon the public by providing the first volume of the new collected edition of his works with a preface containing a long fragment of autobiography. It is a delightfully disorderly piece of work, beginning with his arrival in London, making its way back by easy stages to the days when he required the care of a nurse, and then working up, in leisurely fashion, to the period which produced his novels. It is frank. It is full of humour. It frequently strays into inimitable parentheses. And yet, apparently, it is to attain no further publicity than the 1,025 copies of this limited edition will secure.

For Idiots and Speculators.

The five volumes just published. Mr. Shaw explained in an interview, comprise the whole of his novels. These will be followed by the plays, and the total edition will run to thirty volumes, which will also include one devoted to short stories.

"I have received a large number of letters," said Mr. Shaw, "from people who complain that some of the books included in this edition have never been published separately, and that they couldn't afford to pay thirty guineas for the set. I should like you to make it clear that everything published in this edition will be published separately afterwards. 'The Apple Cart,' for instance, will be published by itself in a few months' time; but it is only fair that those who have subscribed for this edition should have the enjoyment of a little priority. This edition," added Mr. Shaw, "with one of his characteristic merry twinges, 'is only for idiots and speculators.'"

A Success as Cashier.

By the latter reference Mr. Shaw was alluding to the fact that many subscribers have bought two copies of the complete edition, one to keep for their private use and one to sell at the enhanced price which the edition is certain to reach in the future. As the type has been distributed, there can be no question of reprinting the edition.

But it is the first volume, which contains the autobiographical fragment, over which most people will linger longest. It is fifty-four years since Mr. Shaw made his descent upon London. He was twenty. He had been in business some years. He had even made a success of the position of cashier, from a beginning at 13s. a month. He fled from it. He had come to detect it "as cordially as any sane person lets himself detect anything he cannot escape from," and he resolved to join his mother and only surviving sister in London.

Family Ostracized.

Of his father he has much to say. He had an unfortunate addiction to drink which enforced a virtual ostracism upon his family. But he had a "humorous sense of anticlimax" which Mr. Shaw inherited and used with much effect when he became a writer. He has much also to say of his relatives and the picture of a family scene at Bushy Park with the uncle and aunts sitting round sedately while "uncle Barney stood, solemnly playing 'Annie Laurie' on the ophicleide," crystallises an atmosphere and describes a period. He has, too, a sense of his family which appears to have been strong among his relatives. One of them went so far as to publish 100 copies of his pedigree in which Mr. Shaw rejoiced to find that, according to the Rev. Lachlan Shaw, a general tradition traced the descent of the Shaws to Macduff, Earl of Fife. Mr. Shaw comments:

I hastily skipped to the chapter about the Irish Shaws, to make sure that they were my people, and there they were, batonnet and all, only traced to the third son of that immortal yet unborn Thane of Fife, who, invulnerable to normally acquired swordsmanship, laid on and slew Macbeth. It was as good as being descended from Shakespeare, whom I had been unconsciously resolved to reincarnate from my cradle.

Father's Laughter at Ruin.

Yet it was a sufficiently well-connected family to make the impecuniosity in which they lived not that tolerable sort of poverty which furnishes an element of romance in the early lives of many famous men, but the poverty of "the younger son of the younger son." In some way, however, they appeared to make a useful substitute for happiness, of irresponsibility. All this appeared to be able to play some musical instrument. They were partial, perhaps, to brass ones. Mr. Shaw's father seems to have been par excellence irresponsible. He found a subject for an inextinguishable laughter in the fact that he was brought to the verge of ruin, and when the family "solved a desperate financial situation by emigrating to London he made no effort to rejoin them. And none of us ever dreamt of there being any unkindness in the arrangement. In our family we did not bother about conventionalities and sentimentalities.

Original Prayers.

There is an inimitable page in which Mr. Shaw describes his early attitude to religion. He composed his own prayers:

I cannot recall the words of the final form I adopted, but I remember that it was in three movements, like a sonata, and in the best Church of Ireland style. It ended with the Lord's Prayer, and I repeated it every night in bed. I had been warned by my nurse that warm prayers were of no use, and that only by kneeling by my bedside in the cold could I hope for a hearing; but I criticised this admonition unfavourably on various grounds, the real one being my preference for warmth and comfort.

He learned nothing at school, he says, and is content with the fact: "I congratulate myself on this, for I am firmly persuaded that every unnatural activity of the brain is as mischievous as any unnatural activity of the body, and that pressing people to learn things they do not want to know is as unwholesome and disastrous as feeding them on sawdust." Civilization is always wrecked by giving the governing classes what is called secondary education, which produces invincible ignorance and intellectual and moral imbecility as a result of unnatural abuse of the apprehensive faculty.

It was not, however, because of his having learned nothing at school that he found himself so shy upon coming to London, but because the social seclusion in which his family had lived involved his losing "the social drill which puts one at one's ease in private society." People who met him, he says, "may well have found me insufferable, aggressive, and impudent." He goes on to describe the awkwardness of the born Communist "in plutocratic society" before he knows "what he is and understands why," and sums up: "As it happens, I was a born Communist and iconoclast (or Quaker) without knowing it, and I never got on easy term with plutocracy and snobbery until I took to the study of economics, beginning with Henry George and Karl Marx.

Strange Taste for Stage Demons.

But even when he was a "good boy" his taste ran so strongly on stage villains and stage demons that he painted his bedroom wall with frescoes of Mephistopheles, and thinks he must actually have bewitched himself. For "when Nature completed my countenance in 1880 or thereabouts (I had only the tenderest sprouting of hair on my face until I was 24), I found myself equipped with the upgrowing moustaches and eyebrows and the sarcastic nostrils of the operative fiend, whose airs (by Gounod) I had sung as a child, and whose attitudes I had affected in my boyhood."

He disclaims ambition, admits that he had never thought about being a great man because he took it for granted, and, full of such turbulences and an ineradicable hatred of an office desk, found himself in London. His many admirers will be pleased to learn a hitherto undisclosed quarry for his early work. He acted as ghost for a musician who had accepted a part as a musical critic; but as a proper ghost with no real existence he could not enter the office to correct his proofs. They were full of inaccuracies and interpolations, and therefore those copies of "The Hornet" are quite accurately to be described as a quarry from which the veritable Shaw must be excavated.

 disease.

"In spite of my 64 years and a hard working life, I still am in active business, thanks to Phosferine. It has never failed to 'pull me round' when exhausted, more rapidly than anything I have tried. For toning nerves up and generally helping an invalid when run down and weak, I always consider Phosferine unequalled to restore strength and ensure a quick recovery. Just now with Influenza about, and changeable weather, a dose now and again (even when not ailing) protects the system against attacks of disease. I may add that to a worker, subject to brain fog, like myself, your Phosferine Tablets act like a charm in recuperating the system. It is because Phosferine is what it claims to be—a genuine tonic for all 'run down'—that I recommend it." Mr. E. J. Frost, 39, Moulsham Street, Chelmsford, Eng.

Rejected Novels.

But in 1870 he had written a novel. He had disciplined himself to fill pages of manuscript each day, and he had still "so" much of the schoolboy and the clerk in him that if the five pages ended in the middle of a sentence he did not finish it till the next day. Upon this plan he produced five novels in five years. He had no success. Fifty or sixty refusals made him "undiscoverable, acquiring a superhuman insensitiveness to praise or blame."

The first novel was actually accepted by Blackwood; but the offer was withdrawn. Sir George Macmillan sent him a "longish and evidently considered report by the firm's reader, John (afterwards Lord Morley)." But it is only now that it finds its way into print. It is nearly 200,000 words long; but, says Mr. Shaw, the manuscript was still legible, with the writing sloping slightly backwards, though the ends of the pages had been nibbled by mice and the words had to be restored.

This novel forms volume one in the new limited edition which now appears, with this attractive installment of autobiography.

Ascending Frankness.

In regard to his father, Mr. Shaw says:—

"If you cannot get rid of the family skeleton," he says, "you may still make it dance."

So he tells the truth about his father. "You will ask why I was not respectfully brought up," he says. "Unfortunately, or fortunately (it all depends on how you look at it), my father had a habit which eventually closed all doors to him, and consequently to my mother, who could not very well be invited without him. 'If you asked him to dinner or to a party he was not quite always sober when he arrived, and he was invariably scandalously drunk when he left.'"

"Now, a convivial drunkard may be exhilarating in convivial company. Even a quarrelsome or boastful drunkard may be found entertaining by people who are not particular."

"But a miserable drunkard—and my father, in theory a teetotaler, was racked with shame and remorse even in his cups—is unbearable."

"We were finally dropped socially. After my early childhood I cannot ever remember paying a visit to a relative's house. If my mother and father had dined out or gone to a party their children would have been more astonished than if the house had caught fire."

"My mother rescued herself from this predicament by her musical talent. My father reduced his teetotalism from theory to practice when a mild fit, which felled him on our doorstep one Sunday afternoon, convinced him that he must stop drinking or perish."

"Too Humane Mother."

"His reform came too late to save the social situation; and I was cut off from the social drill which puts one at one's ease in private society, and utterly ignorant of social routine." My mother, who had been as carefully brought up as Queen Victoria, was too humane to inflict what she had suffered on any child; besides, I think she imagined that correct behaviour is inborn, and that too much of what she had been taught was natural to her.

This is how Shaw explains his crudeness when he came to London as a youth:—"I had been merely shy provincially, with incorrect table manners and wrong clothes; if I had eaten peas with a knife and worn a red jacket with an evening suit, kind people would have taken me in hand and drilled me, but my difficulties were not of that easy remediable kind."

"All my life," he says later, "I have been a sojourner on this planet rather than a native of it."

A QUARREL IN COURT.

BARRISTER AND JURYMEN.

There was a heated passage between a barrister and a jurymen at an inquest at Onger, Essex, recently.

Mr. Herbert Malone complained to the coroner that a jurymen had told him he was trying to trip a witness. This Mr. Malone strongly denied.

"I have never known an inquisition like this in all my life," he declared, "and I shall take it to the King's Bench."

Later Mr. Malone told the coroner that the jurymen had spoken to a material witness, telling him his opinion as to how the accident had occurred.

Protest to Coroner.

The jurymen, in his turn, complained that Mr. Malone had been pointing at him, and criticising him, ever since the inquiry commenced. He had also said that the jury had made up their minds, and it was useless going on, and Mr. Malone denied this, and protested against the jurymen serving.

The coroner said that he did not like to discharge a jurymen in the middle of a case. He had never done so.

Mr. Malone said that recently High Court Judges had made certain observations on the conduct of some inquests, and more would be heard of that.

RUNAWAY TRAIN ON VESUVIUS.

DASH DOWN MOUNTAIN.

On the small electric mountain railway which carries hundreds of tourists up to the crater of Vesuvius three carriages of the train recently broke loose and started on a wild descent of the steep slopes of the volcano. The carriages were fortunately empty, except for three conductors, who were unable to bring them to a standstill in spite of braking, and decided to jump out, thus saving their lives. Meanwhile the carriages went on, and stations were warned all down the line. They were finally deviated into a side track, where buffers held them up.

TREASURE TROVE.

HOARD OF EDWARD III. COINS AT TALLYBONT.

A number of gold coins described by the authorities of the British Museum as nobles, formed the subject of an inquest held at Tallybont, near Aberystwyth, by Mr. T. Eytton Morgan, coroner.

The coins, thirty in number, were found in a perfect state of preservation in a niche in a rock by a workman engaged on the construction of a new road between Ynyssylas and Tynyddol, in the area of the Aberystwyth Rural District Council. They are similar in design to the gold noble struck by Edward the Third to commemorate the Battle of Sluys, won by the English merchant navy in 1344, and represent him standing armed and crowned in a ship.

The coroner said that as far he knew that was the first inquest on treasure trove held in the country of Cardigan. When such finds were fully and promptly reported, the Treasury would return the coins to the finders unless they were required for national or other institutions when they would pay to the finders their antiquarian value.

Evidence as to the finding of the coins was given by three workmen who said they were found in a single pile, without any sort of covering. One of the workmen said he took some of the coins home and not realising their value gave them as playthings to his children with the result that one of the coins was lost. The jury returned a verdict that the find was treasure trove, and that the coins had been intentionally hidden. They also asked the coroner to request the Treasury when disposing of the coins to give the National Museum of Wales and the National Library of Wales the opportunity of acquiring some of them if they so desired.

ROCKING HORSE DANCE.

INTRODUCTION OF THE
"MID-WAY RHYTHM."

The new dance for next winter, demonstrated at the Portman Rooms, Baker-street, London, by the Imperial Society of Teachers of Dancing, is the Mid-Way Rhythm.
Its time, for variety's sake, lies half-way between two steady favorites of the ordinary dancing
public—the quickstep and the slow foxtrot.
It has a walk and a glide like any slow foxtrot, and is complicated by a step called "the rock," in which the dancers sway backwards and forwards like a rocking horse.
Miss Josephine Bradley, who demonstrated the dance with her partner, did not wear a long dress, and her skirt was divided at the side for greater dancing freedom.
If this "mid-way rhythm" is really adopted by the dancing public, its rocking tendencies will have to be modified, or else long skirts will have to be killed to the knee for the performance. The rocking and the long skirts will not be able to exist together without disaster.

ISSUE OF PAPAL COINS TO BE RESUMED.

APPEARANCE IN DECEMBER.

It has been decided after a lapse of 60 years to issue a new Papal coinage. The new coins will be eight in number and will have the same fineness and value as the corresponding Italian coins. Two will be of bronze and will be worth 5 and 10 centesimi, respectively.
There will be two other coins in nickel, worth 20 and 50 centesimi,
and three silver coins worth respectively 1, 5, and 10 lire. In addition there will be a gold piece of 100 lire. The coins will bear on the obverse the Pope's effigy and on the reverse his coat of arms, or else sacred subjects as was the earlier days of the Papal coinage.
The coins will be struck by the Italian Mint and will be issued in December. The issue of a special convention between the Vatican City and the Italian Government,
each State will allow the currency of the other to circulate in its territory. The Vatican City has, however, given an undertaking that

THE SILVER SCREEN.

"GENTLEMEN OF THE PRESS."

Those who saw "Gentlemen of the Press" at its opening performance at the Central Theatre last night will talk about it for days.
Newspaper life as it is lived is the theme of this drama. Walter Huston, the star, handles the difficult part of a veteran newspaperman, torn between the fascination
of his work and his family ties, with admirable fullness. A splendid cast carries a variety of human characterizations, with stirring effect. There are laughs rippling through the story and pathos at moments and all the time there is the sense of living which only great art in writing, directing and acting could bring to the screen.

Charles Ruggles, the well-known stage comedian, translates a minor part into an outstanding role. He is naturally funny and yet pathetically weak. Everyone laughs at him; everyone pities him and everyone understands him. His characterization is an evening's entertainment all by itself. Betty Lawford does some wonderful work as the daughter and Katharine Francis, another Broadway favourite, is charming and competent.

Taken all-together, "Gentlemen of the Press" is truly great entertainment; it reveals the real possibilities of the screen. It is a picture that everyone who wants to see the finest and best in moving pictures with dialogue should see.

FILM STAR'S FIGHT.

MARY NOLAN NOT DRUG ADDICT.

Ill-starred Mary Nolan, known throughout the United States as
"the girl who lived down her past," hopes that the latest chapter of her misfortunes has been closed by a recent decision of the Government agents to drop the charge against her of being a drug addict.

In the hospital in New York where she is being treated for excessive sunburn, the film actress told the narcotics inspector that she was the victim of a plot to blackmail her under a threat to destroy her reputation. Two former nurses swore affidavits that for two weeks past Mary Nolan had been indulging in an orgy of drug taking, but the inspector, after examining her,
wrote across the search warrants,
"She is not a narcotic addict."

Triumph at 16.

Bad luck has dogged her since the start of her career. At the age of 16 she won meteoric success in the Ziegfeld Follies under the name of Imogene Wilson. This triumph was ruined by her association with Frank Timney, the comedian. The professional future of Timney and herself appeared to have been blasted, but, under her own name of Mary Robertson, she sought work in Europe. Her gifts made her a star in German films, and an American producer recommended her for an engagement in Hollywood.

Changing her name again to Mary Nolan, it was not until she was acclaimed a star at Hollywood that she was recognised as the former Imogene Wilson.

WIFE AND FILM VAMP.

BOYCOTT PROPOSAL.

The Berlin film actress, Frau Marlene Dietrich, whose acting equals, and almost eclipses, that of Emil Jannings in Germany's great talking film, "The Blue Angel," has become a central figure in a Hollywood scandal, which was echoed in Berlin last month.
Frau Dietrich, who immediately received an offer of a Hollywood engagement after her brilliant success, plays the part of a completely immoral "vamp" in this picture so perfectly that the wife of the producer, Joseph von Sternberg, has apparently had no difficulty in persuading the powerful Women's Association of America that the newcomer to Hollywood has been instrumental in alienating her husband's affections from her.
In consequence, it is suggested that Marlene Dietrich's pictures should be boycotted by all right-thinking people.

Marlene Dietrich's own contention is that she is innocent of any wrong. Her own Government is a divorce petition against her wife.
At present Marlene Dietrich is filming under von Sternberg in Mexico, where a picture entitled "Morocco" is being shot, and where her male partners are Adolphe Menjou and Gary Cooper.

"JACK" AND HIS CAR.

A WAY THEY HAVE IN THE NAVY.

I had a preliminary view of what was to be seen at Devonport during Navy Week from the great battleships Rodney and Malaya, the battle cruiser Renown and Tiger, down the scale to the destroyers and submarines, and finally to The House that "Jack" Built.

There was everything to be seen that was of interest in the Navy, and there was nothing the Navy
could not do.

After seeing the things produced in The House that "Jack" built under the system of vocational training given in connection with the National Association for the Employment of Regular Sailors, Soldiers and Airmen, it needed no effort to believe it.

One thing that struck me was the number of motor-cycles in the Royal Naval Barracks. I remarked to Commodore N. F. Laurence, Chairman of the Navy Week Committee, that "Jack" seemed very partial to the motor-cycle and asked if the lower-deck man had yet aspired to a motor-car.

"Oh, yes, he has," replied the Commodore. "We have three or four here, and that presents us with a problem. The officers all have cars and they have built a garage at their own expense. Now 'Jack' wants a garage.

"I expect it will end in our having to build one for him."

GERMAN SCORN OF MONARCHY.

"ALL RIGHT FOR THE MOVIES."

"When is the Kaiser coming back?" is a question still asked by visitors to Germany, especially transatlantic visitors. It is never asked by a German. And in all the varied and comprehensive political discussions that accompany the break-up and the regrouping of the German parties the former Kaiser is not even mentioned. He is a distant and fading memory.
Politically his name counts for nothing: what is still more significant is that the monarchy as an institution is almost forgotten.

Even the new "Conservative People's party," which is led by Count Westarp, the former Nationalist leader, is no longer monarchist.
One of its speakers said publicly the other day that the monarchy is
"all right for the movies but not for anything else." The "Old Conservatives," a little group of moth-eaten aristocrats and ex-generals in the Nationalist party, have now protested against this neglect of the monarchy, declaring that without the monarchy there can be no true Conservative movement in Germany.
But except for an inconspicuous paragraph in to-day's papers no notice whatever is taken of their protest. In German politics the monarchy has long ceased to be an issue.

LUMBERMAN'S ESCAPE.

WHIRLED THROUGH A MILE OF FOAMING RAPIDS.

A remarkable escape from what seemed a certain death amongst the whirling timber logs of the wild Forsmo rapids, is reported from the timber camp on the Forsmo Bridge on the Angermanland River in Northern Sweden. Three lumberjacks were engaged in the perilous work of breaking up a big pile of logs obstructing the passage at the top of the falls. Suddenly the pile broke and went crashing down the river. Two of the men had a hair-breadth escape, while the third,
a man by name of Petterson, lost his footing, was thrown headlong into the water, and disappeared amongst the whirling logs and the foaming eddies.

The spectators on the shore were horrified and gave up every hope of saving the man, since it is well-known that the formidable Forsmo rapids have taken many lives, and that no one who fell in ever returned alive. At the foot of the first fall, however, Petterson was seen on top of the tangle of logs being carried downstream at such a speed that a boat which was launched was left far behind. The man again disappeared, and the message of his death was already spreading all along the river, when suddenly Petterson himself appeared on the shore, and was seen with no other damage than a bruise on one leg.

Thanks to his great strength and agility he had been able to get up on top of the timber and to remain there throughout the dread dance down the rapids for a distance of one mile.

BOMBING NEAR RACE- HORSES.

TRAINERS' ANGER OVER PLANS OF AIR MINISTRY.

The proposal of the Air Ministry
to use a part of the Berkshire Downs for bombing practice has caused concern among horse trainers in the Lambourn district.

At a recent meeting a letter, signed by 30 trainers, was addressed to Major R. Glyn, M.P. for Abingdon, pointing out that if the scheme is carried out they would have to discontinue training on the Downs.

This would affect hundreds of horses, men, and lads, to say nothing of the farmers who supply fodder and depend on the trainers
for most of their livelihood.

Thousands of pounds have been spent on the stables, gallops, and houses, and the farmers say they would certainly demand compensation.

The Lambourn district is getting more and more popular as a centre for the training of racehorses. It is now the largest in England,
with the exception of Newmarket.

GREATEST SOCIAL EVIL.

INCREASE OF GAMBLING.

After its sixty-second meeting in London last month the Royal Commission on Licensing adjourned until November.

Commissioner David C. Lamb, of the Salvation Army, said hard drinking or drunkenness was not now the greatest social evil. Gambling and betting, on the other hand, were on the increase in all walks of life. There was an increased gambling among women.

Commissioner Lamb added that clubs ought to be dealt with in the same way as public-houses, and he thought that they should be under similar police supervision. About 90 per cent. of the clubs he had investigated were associated with gambling.

The Rev. H. Carter: That is a striking statement.

Commissioner Lamb: Of course,
I did not investigate the Constitutional or National Liberal Clubs.
We went among the clubs of working men.

He added that he thought the country was not yet ripe for prohibition, but that Local Option would now be a reasonable political advance.

"Impregnable Position."

The Rev. Thomas Nightingale, secretary of the National Council of Evangelical Free Churches, bitterly attacked the liquor trade. "It seems to have dug itself into an impregnable position," he said.
"It has done this with its immense financial resources, its strongly welded organisation, its powerful and subtle influence on politicians and the Press, and its maintenance and glorification of the traditions of a hard-drinking England. I stand for prohibition."

The Commission adjourned until November 4.

METHOD.—Place water and the syrup from the tin in a saucepan. Add the sugar, stir till boiling. Add peaches, and continue to cook until the pieces of peach look quite clear. Pour into a basin and let the mixture get cold. Place the gelatine in a basin, pour over the milk, and soak for half an hour. Place basin over a pan of boiling water to melt the gelatine. Mix together the contents of both basins and pour the whole into a glass dish. Pour the cream into a basin and whisk lightly. When the froth rises skim and place on a hair sieve to drain away the milk. Continue this until the cream is used up. Pile this high on the top of the mixture in the glass dish.

DEMOCRACY OLD AND NEW.

MR. BALDWIN'S ADDRESS.

A BROADCAST TO AMERICA.

Mr. Stanley Baldwin spoke on "Democracy, old and new" when he delivered the Dr. John Clifford Lecture in connection with the annual conference of the Brotherhood movement at Coventry last month. The address was broadcast not only in England, but to America.

Mr. Baldwin discussed not as a party leader but as a spectator the political tendencies of to-day. He said that the future of popular government was said by his friends and enemies to be in doubt. It had lost ground in so many countries recently, and once more they were told there was no escape from the circular movement of tyranny, oligarchy, democracy, and back to tyranny again. "Impatience with things as they are is widespread, and here in England there is a current of discontent running, though it is not very strong. I do not think it is likely to boil up and submerge the Parliamentary institutions with which we are familiar. Our political capacity for avoiding upheavals has long been envied by our Continental neighbours. They will find once again, I venture to prophesy, that we shall get together and modify presently our institutions and practices to suit the new conditions. We are not good at planning ahead in England, but we have a gift for improvising and a gift for compromise. Within the House of Commons there is a growing sense of a need for overhauling the ship of State. Mr. Lloyd George recently compared it with one of the old windjammers. Mr. Churchill would like to see a new deliberative body, and Mr. Sidney Webb (Lord Passfield) is seeking, I understand, to create a Parliament for domestic or non-foreign and non-imperial questions.

A Sense of Futility.

"There is among the idealists of all parties a sense of futility that is not born of the failure of the machinery but of the failure of faith. Ideals have a great harmonising power, and when the machinery of government goes to work it has a steadily disintegrating power. The hopes held out when laws are drafted are not always realised when they are passed. "One of the sources of our modern disappointment with Parliament is due to the fact that laws deal and can deal only directly with a fragment of man, but in so doing indirectly they affect the whole personality. The ultimate test of lawmaking is its effect on John Smith's character: ought not to be tolerated, but are we all quite happy that in giving John Smith State benefits in this whole-sale way we are not at the same time taking something from him that will make him poor indeed? "Some of the worst features of the old system have been got rid of, but have we ceased to create and perpetuate the pauper class, which was the evil which we set out to destroy. I think we may be saved from some of the evils which threaten us by the emergence of voluntary associations and their employment by the State. "I foresee the State in the years to come justly making larger and larger demands upon voluntary associations to execute its will. Democracy will take on new forms. The tendency to frown on voluntary efforts will be reversed. It will give that practical expression of personality, which is freedom, and it will give that association of all the elements in the State, which is brotherhood."

Dealing in the earlier part of his address with the effect of Greek thought on modern forces, Mr. Baldwin said that many of the problems which lay at the root of the Simon Report were canvassed daily in the market place of Athens in the fourth and fifth centuries before Christ. If Thucydides became professor of history at Birmingham he would soon be at home in expounding these problems and we should understand them.

"DOPE GANG" FEAR OF BANKER.

CORONER DISCARDS MURDER THEORY.

"TO PROTECT A WOMAN."

A banker's statement, made the day before he was found dead, that he was being followed and "doped" by a gang of international crooks, was described at a Lambeth inquest last month.

An open verdict was returned on Cantacuzing George Giro, aged 59, a retired Greek banker, York Road, Guildford, Surrey.

Giro was found with his skull fractured on the railway track on the bridge crossing, Lambeth Road, S.W.

Contantino George Giro, a brother of the dead man, said some years ago their father, in a sudden fit of dementia, jumped or fell overboard from a ship in the Mediterranean while travelling to England. His brother was in a good financial position. Lately he had been worried about the transference of about £2,000 to a young Armenian married woman whom he was protecting. He had been paying her an income from the money for some years, but had decided to transfer the capital to her.

His attitude to the woman was of a purely charitable nature, and her husband knew of the proposed settlement.

Agitated Statement.

Stephen Gregory Erpedocles, an official of the Commercial Bank of the Near East, London Wall, E.C., said Giro came into the bank the day before his death in a very agitated condition and asked him to take a statement from him, because he was being pursued. The official added:—

"He told me—and I wrote it down—that he had been 'doped' by a waitress at the Waterloo Station refreshment buffet, and did not think he would survive. He said the 'dope' was put in his cup of tea. He spoke of a gang of international crooks who operated from Athens. He said they were pursuing him and systematically 'doping' him and the young woman he was protecting.

Kathleen Bissel said Giro had lodged with her mother for two years. For the past six weeks the young Armenian woman, with her baby daughter, had been staying at the same house. Giro told him she was his niece.

Woman He Befriended.

Mrs. Nahnikian, the Armenian woman, gave evidence in her own language, which was interpreted. She said she had known Giro since she was a child. Her husband, a civil engineer, Greece, knew and approved of the allowance which Giro made her. It was Giro's own suggestion that he should settle the £2,000 capital on her.

The coroner (Mr. Ingleby Oddie) said: "Why did he make this settlement? Mrs. Nahnikian: When I was married three years ago he arranged to give me a dowry."

The coroner said he had to decide whether Giro was thrown, jumped on, fell from the train. He was obviously suffering from the delusion that he was being poisoned and followed.

It was not known why he suddenly decided to go back to Guildford late on Monday night, but he may have decided to return to the young woman to protect her from the imaginary persecutors. The coroner added:—

"I do not think there is any evidence of his being assaulted and thrown from the train."

"I do not know what happened in the railway carriage, but I am satisfied that he was not murdered."

LESSON SERMON.

FIRST CHURCH OF CHRIST, SCIENTIST, HONG KONG.

"Christ Jesus" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist on Sunday, August 31.

The Golden Text was: "We have seen and do testify that the Father sent the Son to be the Saviour of the world." (1 John 4: 14).

Among the Lesson-Sermons which comprised the following from the Bible: "Then Peter opened his mouth, and said, 'The word which God sent unto the children of Israel, preaching peace by Jesus Christ (he is Lord of all): That word, I say, ye know, which was published throughout Judea, and began from Galilee.'"

How God anointed Jesus of Nazareth with the Holy Ghost and with power: who went about doing good, and healing all that were oppressed of the devil; for God was with him" (Acts 10: 34-38).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science text-book, Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures: "Man, being a spirit, is not subject to the laws of matter, and is not bound by the limitations of the material world. He is a free agent, and his will is not controlled by the senses. He is a child of God, and his Father is God. He is a soul, and his body is a garment of flesh. AN AMOROUS COOK.

CHOPPER ATTACK ON AMAH.

THEN TRIED TO DROWN HIMSELF.

On the charge of assault and causing grievous harm to an amah employed at the Yee Hung brothel, 3, Hill Road, West Point, on August 17, a cook, employed at the same establishment, was sentenced to three months' hard labour when he appeared before Mr. R. E. Lindsell at the Central Magistracy yesterday.

Mr. Horace Lo appeared for the prosecution.

When the case first came before Mr. Lindsell on Wednesday last, it was stated that the cook approached the amah on August 15 and said to her, "Wo Ting, everybody is saying that you love me, how about marrying me?" The complainant became very indignant and sharply retorted "The devil take you. I should like to see you dead!"

Two days later while the amah was washing her face in the back yard she felt herself struck twice on the head. She turned round and saw that defendant was the only person in the compound, and she naturally concluded that he was the person who had made the attack. The amah shouted "save life" and then fainted. She was later taken to the Government Civil Hospital, where she remained for over ten days.

After the incident, an immediate search was made for the defendant. About an hour later, it was found that the man had attempted to commit suicide by jumping into the harbour. He was rescued and taken to the Government Civil Hospital.

When defendant was subsequently charged by the Police, he replied that he was drunk on the morning of August 17 and did not know what he did. He had no knowledge that he had attacked the amah but asserted that he had no cause for taking such an action. Also, he was not aware that he had jumped into the harbour.

Serious Injuries.

On Saturday, when the case was continued, Dr. G. H. Thomas gave medical evidence regarding both the amah and the cook. The amah, when admitted, was bleeding severely from two scalp wounds of a serious nature. Witness found that the outer plate of the skull had been cracked in each case. He was handed a large blood-stained chopper which was found inside the kitchen-door of the brothel.

Dr. Thomas said that the chopper was a heavy one, and thought the injuries might easily have been more serious.

On the same day the cook was also admitted to hospital suffering from effects of immersion. When witness discovered that this man was responsible for the attack on the complainant, he had him sent to the Mental Hospital for observation.

After a week's observation, the defendant was discharged as there appeared to be no sign of insanity.

Mr. Lindsell asked defendant if he wished to make any statement to which he replied "I have nothing to say."

Mr. Lindsell: It is obvious then, that she rejected your advances and you attacked her.

Defendant: Nothing of the sort happened.

Mr. Lindsell: It is obvious that you never made any overture to her. That is all I have to say.

Mr. Lindsell: You are convicted on the clearest possible evidence.

Defendant was sentenced to three months' hard labour.

OFFENSIVE TRADE.

MR. LO'S QUESTIONS AT SANITARY BOARD.

At the next meeting of the Sanitary Board, to be held tomorrow Mr. M. K. Lo will ask—
"i.—Is the Head of the Sanitary Department aware that shops and firms in the vicinity of Nos. 27 to 39 North Street, Kennedy Town have complained of the nuisance caused to such shops and premises by reason of the business of bone-boiling and storage being carried on at the same premises?"

"ii.—Is it a fact that the business carried on at the said premises does cause a noxious odour to the other shops and premises in the vicinity and has the result of producing numerous flies and worms which invade such surrounding shops and firms?"

"iii.—Is it not a fact that the carrying on of such an offensive trade in the premises mentioned creates insanitary and unhealthy conditions for shops and firms in the vicinity?"

"iv.—Is the Head of the Sanitary Department satisfied that the existing Offensive Trade By-laws are being strictly enforced, and in particular that By-law No. 5 is being complied with by the occupiers of Nos. 27 to 39 North Street?"

"v.—In view of the importance of the question of offensive trades in relation to public health, is the Head of the Sanitary Department satisfied that the present bye-laws are sufficiently up-to-date and efficient for the purpose of reducing the nuisance of offensive trades to a minimum?"

"vi.—In view of the fact that remedies for counteracting by various authorities on public health, e.g., Robertson and Porter in their work "Sanitary Law and Practice," at page 94 et seq., will the Head of the Sanitary Department state whether remedies suggested by public health authorities are being carried out in the Colony?"

TRANS-CONTINENTAL RECORD.

MOTOR BEATS FASTEST TRAIN'S TIME.

A telegram from New York has just been received by the Texas Company (China), Limited, to the effect that yet another achievement goes to the credit of "Texaco" gas and oil. The Trans-continental automobile speed record, which was previously held by the famous cross-country driver "Cannon Ball" Baker, was broken on August 19 by more than fifteen hours by a Buick car. The winning car was fueled and lubricated by "Texaco" gasoline and motor oil and was driven by C. Hawley, director of the "Texaco" map division.

Hawley's total time from New York to Los Angeles and back was one hundred and forty-one hours and forty-four minutes which is more than seven hours faster than the fastest trans-continental train.

$300,000 WANTED.

CONTRIBUTION TO NORTH POINT SEA-WALL.

[The Finance Committee will be asked on Thursday to vote a sum of $300,000 as a contribution towards the cost of building a sea-wall at North Point. (The explanation attached to the request for the sum is as follows:—

Contribution towards cost of building Seawall, Marine Lots 430-431. $300,000.

[This vote arises out of the sale in September, 1921, of Marine Lots mentioned. Conditions of sale required the purchaser to reclaim and construct a seawall. Later in 1923-3 in connection with a proposed scheme to build a vertical sea-wall in the North Point, Quarry Bay district the purchaser agreed to change his plans, on condition that the Government advance $800,000 to him at interest.

The seawall in front of the purchaser's land has been completed at an additional cost to him of over $1,000,000. The scheme above referred to is no longer under consideration.

In view of the circumstances of the case Government has decided, with the approval of the Secretary of State, to readjust the terms and to substitute for the advance of $800,000—and as on the date of such advance, a contribution of $300,000—and a loan of $300,000.

A FAMOUS VIOLINIST.

ZIMBALIST AT THEATRE ROYAL TO-MORROW.

Efrem Zimbalist, the world-famous violinist, who has just completed a wonderfully successful season in Manila, will arrive in the Colony to-day by the Empress of Canada and will make one appearance only at the Theatre Royal to-morrow night.

One of the most famous names in the musical world to-day is that of Efrem Zimbalist. The great artist graduated from the Imperial Conservatory in Petrograd after winning the coveted gold medal and the Rubinstein scholarship of 12,000 roubles. On November 7, 1907, he made his Berlin debut, playing Brahms concerto. Two months later he made his first London appearance and then went on a triumphant tour of the music centres of Europe.

Mr. Zimbalist's art remains enviable to the general public. In an age which sanctions the descent of the artist to the average mood, he chooses to follow the path of artistic rectitude he set upon in his youth. A genius of the violin he certainly is, and his playing has that individuality and uncompromising mental appeal that is the gift of the chosen few.

Mr. Zimbalist's well-chosen programme for to-morrow night will include the first performance in Hong Kong of the Suite "Bizarro" by the composer Achroon. Mr. Zimbalist will have the assistance of the piano of Mr. Harry Kaufman.

DEATH SENTENCES.

COUNTRIES IN WHICH THEY HAVE BEEN ABOLISHED.

EVIDENCE TO M.P.s.

Another witness from abroad was heard by the House of Commons Select Committee on Capital Punishment. He was Sir Simon von der Aa, of the International Prison Commission, Berne.

Sir Simon told the Committee of the experiences of the Netherlands and of Switzerland since the abolition of the death penalty. In Holland the last execution for murder took place in 1860, he said. That was ten years before capital punishment was formally abolished.

"A great impression was made on the public mind," he related, "by one particular occurrence. It was a murder which was committed by a man who had witnessed an execution only two days before."

Since the abolition of the death penalty in Holland, he said, there had been no indication of a real increase of murder, although the figures showed oscillations. For instance, in the five years to 1915 convictions for murder or attempted murder were at the rate of ten a year, while in 1926 and 1927 in a larger population there were only three a year.

Imprisonment for life was the greatest penalty imposed for murder. The Court might impose a fixed term of twenty years. The Court had full discretion as to the length of the sentence down to a minimum, as for all other crimes, of one day's imprisonment.

The Carrying of Arms.

The Chairman (the Rev. James Barry): Has the abolition of capital punishment encouraged criminals to carry firearms?

Sir Simon: As far as I know nothing of the sort has been observed in Holland. In recent years there may have been an effect of a certain type of literature in some carrying of firearms in a sort of romantic way, especially by young people.

Sir Simon stated that 10 of the 25 cantons of Switzerland had reintroduced capital punishment since it was abolished for the whole country. The ten cantons which had restored the death penalty represented about 25 per cent. of the total population.

The homicide rate had been a little lower in the cantons without the death penalty than in the others, though it had not increased in either group. Sir Simon's personal opinion was that the existence of capital punishment did not deter murder.

A Remarkable Incident.

Sir Simon gave the committee the queerest piece of evidence it has yet received on this point. "There has been," he said, "a case of a man who has undergone capital punishment and yet committed a murder afterwards."

"You mean," remarked the Chairman, apparently thinking Sir Simon's English had slipped.

"It seems peculiar, but it has been the case," was the rejoinder. "He was hanged, but not in a direct way, and when the executioner came to take him off he found he had lost his senses, but was alive. The executioner gave him money so that he might escape. The man became a servant at a hospital, and three years later in an excess of fury he killed a patient."

This happened in Italy at the end of the eighteenth century.

Sir Simon van der Aa is a Dutchman whose British title was conferred on him in recognition of his services as secretary of the International Prison Congress at its last meeting, which was held in London in 1925. The congress will meet next month in Prague.

Prison Governor's Views.

Brigadier General Dudgeon, Governor of Edinburgh Prison, said that he considered that the death penalty should not be inflicted in cases where murder was committed without premeditation and without the motive of personal gain or of removing an awkward person from the murderer's path. He thought this would reduce the number of death sentences by half. But he was convinced that there were cases in which hanging was the only thing certain types of men feared. Publication of details of murders put ideas into young people's minds. It was possible to point to a murderer which was "an improvement" on one just before the second murderer having avoided a mistake made by the first.

"One of the finest fellows I have ever known," was General Dudgeon's description of a young man who without premeditation killed his wife and was hanged. The man earned an extra year's remission for the wonderful work he did during the building of the new prison at Edinburgh.

"In a way I felt quite unclean after taking part in a hanging," said General Dudgeon answering Mr. Oliverwell. "It certainly is a most horrible business." Though (Continued at foot of next column.)

NAVAL ARCHITECTS LOOK AHEAD.

RUSTLESS SHIPS.

CROSSING ATLANTIC AT 35 KNOTS.

The seventy-first session of the Institution of Naval Architects was opened at the Liverpool Town Hall recently by the Lord Mayor (Councillor Lawrence Holt), who is himself a shipowner. There were also present on the platform the Mayors of Birkenhead, Bootle, and Warrington, and visitors to the conference came from Japan, Holland, the United States, and France.

"We live in an age of marvellous technical achievement in naval architecture, and at the same time in an age of economic gloom," said the Lord Mayor. "The type of achievement likely to maintain British maritime power is thoroughness—the type of achievement which does its job most effectively. We are now enjoying a substantially less share of the ocean tonnage of the world than before. If we maintain anything less than as large a share of the world ocean tonnage as circumstances permit, it will be not merely a deterioration of duty but a national disaster."

Bringing Back the Blue Riband.

Sir Charles Parsons, who subsequently occupied the chair, said the Mauretania had held the record for speed for 23 years, and it was only wrested from her last year by a vessel of nearly double the tonnage and with more modern machinery. They hoped that ere long the new Cunarder would bring back the blue riband of the Atlantic to this country. It would be quite easy to build a liner to cross the Atlantic in moderate weather at 35 knots. Engineers could do it, but the question was whether such a ship would pay.

"I feel that we are very near the time when further rules and regulations may simply end in shutting us out of the carrying trade of the world," said the Hon. L. H. Cripps, in a paper on the economics of cargo liners. "If national ship-building depends on national ship-owning, you have here a condition which demands your careful expert consideration. Shipping is international, and the nation which is to succeed must render the necessary service at a competitive cost, and the Government should encourage and not retard its developments by legislation."

"The most serious problem of upkeep in itself is rust. When are we to have a rustless ship, just as we have rustless knives? If the enormous cost to shipowners of chipping and painting could be done away with, it would create a new epoch in shipping costs, and, as it stands, it offers probably the greatest opportunity for increased efficiency in the industry. With it goes the need for a metal that will withstand bottom growth to enable the shipowner to do away with regular dry-docking and bottom composition."

Sir John Biles urged the founding of a chair of shipping economics at one of the universities.

Britain's Lead.

"At least we are 10 per cent. better in regard to ship design than our foreign competitors," declared Mr. G. S. Baker. "I think that should be broadcast as a fact which has a great deal of bearing on where ships are built."

"An airship is capable of meeting successfully navigating, bad weather, but in the past, owing to the handling limitation, was seldom permitted to demonstrate this fact," said Major G. H. Scott, in a paper on the mechanization of airship handling. Of all the systems so far tried, mast or tower mooring might be looked upon as the only one that was a permanent mooring system, as it lent itself readily to the easy operation and maintenance of the airship while moored. The results obtained at Cardington justified optimism as to the future of mast or tower mooring.

A handling party of many hundreds of men was required, but it was hoped to try out a transporter tower by the end of this year or early next year. If this system of moving an airship from the shed to the high tower and vice versa proved satisfactory, he thought they would be able to claim that the handling of airships when not in flight would have been completely mechanized.

Nothing could be quicker than hanging, he thought there was one aspect in which the use of a gallows would be preferable, the gas being injected while the prisoner was asleep. He had seen only one execution. "I thought it was going to have a permanent effect on me, but I got over it," he said. "In my case I could not help getting attached to the particular young man."

THE END OF THE WORLD.

Not "Old Moore," or even
"Mother Shipton," but CONAN
DOYLE is responsible for the latest forecast of the end of the world.

This misinformation does not come in the form of a message from "the other side," but is contained in a letter written to another novelist whose latest book deals with the fate (in fiction) of this planet.

In this communication CONAN
DOYLE claimed to have received a hundred independent messages from

"the spirit world" giving warning of terrific natural convulsions of the earth, during which upheavals

a large portion of the human race will perish. In January last "a proved and excellent medium" in America conveyed the comforting news that six months in which to prepare for the coming crisis

"could be relied on." The faithful
"Phenax," CONAN DOYLE's own personal link with "the beyond,"

had for about five years been passing on information about the coming cataclysm, and autumn was very kindly indicated by him as the season in which to expect the coming of trouble.

Earthquakes and tidal waves in the Eastern Mediterranean (where five countries will entirely disappear), disasters by tidal waves on the coasts of America, Ireland, and Western Europe, and great upheavals in the South Pacific and the region of Japan are among the items on the future-list. The total period of these upheavals will be

"roughly" three years, but CONAN DOYLE—simple, honest, fellow that he was—confessed he had no certainty about any of these prophesied events. "I can but pass on what has been passed to me, but I would not take the responsibility of doing that if I were not deeply impressed by the facts which have actually occurred. A huge conspiracy to deceive upon the other side would seem to be the only alternative, and that is hardly consistent with the lofty teaching which goes with the messages."

It appears from hints and suggestions received by CONAN DOYLE
through the information-bureau

conducted by "Phenax" that when the great moment arrives for "a complete reading of the veil," so that spirit and matter will be face to face for a time, there will be a classification of humanity into three groups. The hopeless material-naming no names—will be swept away; a great number of spiritualists will be privileged to pass over with their spirit friends

"without death in the ordinary sense of the word," while others of the Elect will remain on earth to establish the new order of things on a solid basis. One thing, and one only, bothered CONAN DOYLE

about all this, and his frank confession on the point is worth note as showing that this simple,
trustful, and in so many ways

altogether admirable man had moments when the fatuous blatherings of "Phenax" were too much even for the most faithful to swallow. All the messages from "the other side," emphasised the point that when the crisis came, deaths would be selective and not indiscriminate. Poor Sir ARTHUR

was able to accept that statement in regard to earthquakes, by the painfully puerile assumption that fatal gases would be released from the earth, to which some persons would be rendered immune, but how an advancing wall of water overwhelming a mass of humanity was to discriminate between "hopeless

material" and the Elect was too much even for CONAN DOYLE's imagination.

THE NEW CUNARDERS.

WHEN Parliament meets again for the autumn session there will be presented for discussion a Bill which is unique. When passed—as it certainly will be—this measure will authorise the Government to cover such portion of the insurance of two ships as cannot be dealt with by Lloyd's and the general insurance market. The vessels are the new Cunarders, costing six million sterling each, and designed to be the fastest as well as the largest liners in the world. Ships of that enormous value present difficult insurance problems which cannot be dealt with in the ordinary way of business, and so it came about that the British Government was appealed to with a request to render assistance. For more than one reason the appeal was sympathetically received; and, subject to Parliament's approval, the Government will do what is necessary to see that the owners of the two new ships are fully covered against all the usual risks.

British prestige, in the matter of size and speed of ships, has been threatened very seriously by German, French, American, and even Italian competition. The finest and fastest ships on the North Atlantic to-day are the two new Norddeutscher Lloyd liners, but the White Star liner Majestic (formerly the German-owned Bismarck) is the largest, 58,000 tons. The new Cunarders will be 70,000 tons, over a thousand feet in length, and are designed to give a speed of 30 knots

—as compared with the 28 maintained by the latest German ships.

A gigantic liner with the speed of a destroyer is an astounding combination, but it will be about four years before the first of the new Cunarders can be put to the test,

and endeavour to win back that mythical blue riband of the Atlantic which remained for so long in Britain's keeping. In August last year the Mauritania—despite her twenty-three years of stormy Atlantic buffeting, and in spite, too, of bad weather conditions

when she made the gallant attempt to show how young and active she was, made over 98 knots—which is as yet an impossible speed for motorships. "High-pressure" steam boilers, with oil fuel, will push the new Cunarders on their way across the Atlantic, and, if all goes well, will bring back to Britain the highly coveted honour of having made the fastest passage between the Old and New Worlds.

International honours of various sorts on the Atlantic are very widely divided nowadays. Britain has the largest ship; Germany has the fastest ships; Italy has the largest motor liner; France and the United States have started to build ships considerably bigger than the Majestic. The decision of the Cunard Company to construct two vessels which, if everything goes according to plan, will prove both the largest and the speediest ships in the world will bring back to the British flag the prestige which has been temporarily lost. More important still, work will be provided in various ways for some 10,000 people, and in these dull days that is a very important consideration.

At the laying of the foundation-stones of the new Barnsley mining and technical college, Mr. Horbert

Smith, the Yorkshire miners' leader, who laid one of the stones,
"instead of conventionally declaring

"this stone well and truly laid,"
said, "Ladies and gentlemen, I don't know whether it is or not."

It had been mentioned that a grant of £15,000 toward the cost of the college had been made from the Miners' Welfare Fund, and Mr.

Smith, speaking of the benefits which had resulted generally from the establishment of the fund, remarked, "I look upon Sankey as stood for the sailors' headline, so Sankey stood for 'fair play for that since the inauguration of the fund, £1,448,188 had been spent on education and research. He also paid a tribute to the whole-hearted interest of Lord Chelms-

The Ministry of Health published last month a circular (No. 1138)
on cancer (No. VII. of the series

A series of questions is appended,

Bandits who attacked a post

One of the men grabbed the box,

into a dark-grey motor-car which

A hue and cry was raised and rail-

HEAT WAVE SWEEPS
BRITAIN.VIOLENT STORM STRIKES
THE HIGHLANDS.

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

LONDON, August 29.
Thirteen deaths occurred in Britain from the heat yesterday.
[The maximum temperature in London was 94 degrees in the shade.

Severe thunderstorms and torrential rain occurred all over the country, causing serious damage to crops, and widespread dislocation of telegraph and telephone communications.

[BRITISH WIRELESS SERVICE.]

RUGBY, August 29.
A violent electrical storm broke over the Scottish Highlands, early this morning.

The lightning was perpetual for three hours accompanied by thunder-bursts of unusual intensity.

The Duke of York was staying with the King at Balmoral and found himself unable to telephone to Glamis Castle, the storm having cut off communications.

The storm, besides doing much damage to property, had a devastating effect on cattle and on fish in the rivers.

Hundreds of salmon have been killed and the loss of cattle cannot be estimated.

Heat Wave Extends Over Europe.

LONDON, August 29.
[The heat wave, which extends practically over the whole of Europe, has been responsible for amazing breaches of British conventions. For instance, girls in bathing attire have been crossing fashionable Regent Street or riding on the tops of omnibuses en route to "Lansbury's Lido," on the Serpentine.]

A company of Guardsmen, similarly attired, was seen marching from barracks to the same destination.

Mixed Bathing In Open-air Baths.
Mixed bathing has been indulged in all night long in open air baths in the Parks at Willesden, by special permission of the local Council, the result being that the baths, which are illuminated by lamps, are so crowded by men and women that swimming is practically impossible.

Motorists clad in the lightest of clothing are "rushing" about the country from London, picnicking in the fields at midnight, and dancing and swimming all night at Brighton and other resorts.

The heat culminated last night in a thunderstorm of tropical intensity.

The display of lightning was unprecedented and torrential rains drove the crowds in London seeking coolness in the open air to shelter.

The storm had worked its way from the north.

Prime Minister Held Up.
Mr. Ramsay MacDonald, flying to Lissiemouth to resume his holiday after the unemployment conference in London, was compelled by the storm to land at Catterick, Yorkshire, and finish the journey by train.

Army Manoeuvres Suspended.
The Army manoeuvres at Alder shot were suddenly suspended. Dragoons at Catterick were ordered to stand by their horses during the storm.

Two horses and one trooper were killed by lightning.

A pilot on a night air mail plane flying to London from Brussels who was unable to get radio directions from Croydon heard a terrific crash as his wireless aerial was struck by lightning. He succeeded in landing at Lympne, however.

Strange Scenes at Football Matches.
LONDON, August 31.
After the thunderstorms the temperature in London yesterday dropped on an average 11.5 degrees compared with the temperature on Friday.

There were a dozen deaths from the heat.

The strangest scenes were witnessed at the league football matches. The temperature was 94 degrees resulting in the substitution of open-necked cricket shirts and shorts for overcoats and mufflers.

Members of the Ambulance Brigade refreshed the parched spectators with buckets of barley water.

LONDON, August 31.
The Sunday Express states that the relations between Mr. Lloyd George and Mr. Ramsay MacDonald were of a very strained character at the Liberal-Labour unemployment conference last Wednesday, which proved resultless.

EX-DICTATOR OF PERU
IN PRISON.

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

LIMA, August 29.
The ex-Dictator of Peru has been imprisoned on San Lorenzo Island, where he will await his trial.

It is the same prison in which Le Guila, when in power, shut up his political enemies.

American Officer Imprisoned.
New York, August 29.
A message from Lima states that an American Naval Reserve officer, H. B. Grow, who acted as head of the Peruvian Flying Corps under the Le Guila regime, has been imprisoned and is awaiting court-martial on the orders of the new Dictator, Sanchez Cerro, who alleges that Grow was acting on Le Guila's orders and intended to bomb Arequipa from the air.

Reform of Civil Service.
New York, August 30.
A telegram from Lima states that in order to facilitate action against the officials charged with offences committed under the Le Guila regime, Colonel Sanchez Cerro has suspended the Articles of the Constitution dealing with public rights.

The Government announces that one of its main objectives will be to reform the Civil Service.

It is reported that an American engineer working on the irrigation scheme was arrested on attempting to leave Lima by air and imprisoned. He is charged with mismanagement of funds.

LORD DERBY REDUCING RACING ESTABLISHMENT.

HIGH TAXATION COMPELS DRASTIC ECONOMY.

[BRITISH WIRELESS SERVICE.]

RUGBY, August 29.
The newspapers state that Lord Derby, one of the pillars of the British Turf, is to make immediate large reductions in his racing establishment.

It is understood that he will reduce his famous stables, which include Fairway, Pharos, Phalaris, Bosworth, and Sansovino, which are the Darby family's main assets.

He will also not part with his younger blood mares. The cream of the stable will be kept, but the rest will come under the hammer at Newmarket in October or December.

This drastic economy in his racing interests is stated to have been enforced on Lord Derby by high taxation.

THE CHINA WAR
SITUATION.LULL POSSIBLY DUE TO NEGOTIATIONS.

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

PEIPING, August 30.
It is largely believed that the lull in the fighting is not due entirely to the floods, but it is possible that some negotiations are proceeding at Peitaiho.

Other competent observers, however, believe that the fighting will yet last many months.

Chang Hsueh Liang Disfavours Advance on Tientsin.

It is generally considered that Marshal Chang Hsueh Liang, while desirous of maintaining neutrality, gave Nanking to understand that he would view with much disfavour any advance from Tsinanfu on Tientsin.

HAS CHANG JOINED NORTHERNERS?REPORTED UNDERSTANDING WITH YEN.

The military situation in the North, which has remained unchanged since the recapture of Tsinan by the Nanking troops, is expected to develop in the immediate future.

According to Chinese telegraphic reports from the North, Chang Hsueh Liang, who returned to Mukden on Saturday, has dispatched three divisions to Hopei (Chihli) from Jehol though the real object of the mobilization is unknown.

While it is reported on one hand that Chang has decided to assist the northern coalition against Nanking, it is rumoured on the other that his troops will take Peiping and Tientsin from the Shansi forces.

It is semi-officially reported in Peiping that Yen Hsi Shian has really reached an understanding with Chang Hsueh Liang, and in order to secure his support, has decided to give up Hopei Province to the Manchurian warlord and has asked him to detail troops to resist the Nanking advance on the Tientsin-Pukow Railway.

The authorities at Peiping also claim that Chang Hsueh Liang is sympathetic towards the formation of the new government at Peiping and will participate in it when the time is opportune.

Upon his return to Mukden, Chang summoned the senior Manchurian officials to a conference to discuss the situation.

Much speculation has been aroused in Nanking by Mr. Wang Chia Ching, the Vice-Minister of Foreign Affairs, who is Chang's nominee, leaving Nanking secretly on Saturday.

Chang is said to be annoyed at the recent aerial bombardment of Peiping by Nanking aeroplanes. He has addressed a telegram to the Central Government requesting them not to repeat the outrage.

COMMUNIST ATTACK ON CHANGSHA FEARED.PANIC-STROKEN INHABITANTS DEPARTING.

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

PEIPING, August 30.
Foreign reports from Changsha state that every ship leaving is packed to the utmost capacity with panic-stricken inhabitants who believe that the recapture of the city is only a matter of time.

Some reports state that the population is reduced to one-third of its normal number.

General Ho Chien's troops are digging in and erecting barbed-wire 10 ft from the city.

AMLINGER AFFAIR.

INTRIGUES BY GERMAN GENERALS.

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

BERLIN, August 29.
The Ministry of Defence has stated that Captain Amlinger left the Service a year ago, and had since not been connected with the Reichswehr, nor had he received any instructions from any Department of the Reichswehr to go to Russia.

The Amlinger affair has renewed the rumour which is officially denied that General Heyer's resignation as Commander-in-Chief of the Reichswehr was due to the intrigues of other Generals, who favour close military co-operation between Germany and Russia.

INDIA PEACE-MAKING
NEGOTIATIONS."PIONEER" FORECASTS
PEACE WITHIN A WEEK.

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

ALLAHABAD, August 29.
Peace in India within a week is forecasted in the newspaper Pioneer, which learns that the negotiations of the peace-makers, Mr. Jayakar and Sir Tej Bahadur Sapru, with the Viceroy have proceeded far enough to enable the former to evolve a formula which may reconcile the points of view of the Indian Government and the Congress leaders.

Sir Tej Bahadur Sapru and Mr. Jayakar arrived at Allahabad from Simla on Friday and to-day interviewed the Viceroy, who are now back in Naini gaol.

Grave Warning to Indian Extremists.

SIMLA, August 30.
Unless civil disobedience ceased it will paralyse India's economic activities, and the provinces will find themselves at the dawn of new reforms so financially crippled that Indians will have no chance of showing the world what they can do for their own country.

This grave warning to Indian extremists was delivered by Sir George Schuster, Finance Member of the Government of India, in an address on the economic position of India to a conference of provincial finance secretaries on the financial recommendations of the Simon Commission.

Sir George Schuster pointed out that the political disturbances in India and China largely contributed to the world depression. Restoration to normality in India would considerably ease the situation.

India could also contribute to the prosperity of the world and herself by reducing the demand for gold for non-currency purposes.

India in this regard required a sound central or federal reserve bank based on national support.

Sir George Schuster laid stress on the vast benefits obtainable by India from co-operation within the Empire. He pointed out that India, however much she might develop her own industries, must continue to find markets for a large part of her crops.

Mrs. Mehta Arrested.
BOMBAY, August 30.
Mrs. Hansa Mehta, a member of the Congress Working Committee, and President of the Bombay War Council, has been arrested.

All the arrested members of the Congress Working Committee have been sentenced to six months' simple imprisonment.

It was reported on August 27 that practically the whole Congress Working Committee had been arrested, including V. J. Patel, ex-President of the Legislative Assembly, who arrived with others at Delhi to hold a meeting of the Committee although it had been proclaimed an unlawful assembly.

A new Congress Working Committee has been formed, consisting of six Moslems and six Hindus, and three members of the old Committee who were not arrested.

Wounded Police Officials' Condition.

CALCUTTA, August 29.
Mr. F. J. Lowman's condition is causing grave anxiety.

He will be operated upon to-day. Mr. E. Hodson is not yet out of danger.

Mr. F. J. Lowman, Acting Inspector-General of Police, and Mr. E. Hodson, Superintendent of Police, were shot and seriously wounded as they were leaving the Midford Hospital at Dacca.

A bullet lodged in Mr. Lowman's spine, and Mr. Hodson was wounded in the buttock.

Both officers were shot with a revolver by a Bengali youth in the hospital compound.

The youth was seized by a hospital contractor, but he broke away and escaped, leaving the revolver behind.

Two Bengali youths were subsequently arrested on suspicion.

Mr. Lowman's Condition Critical.

Dacca, August 30.
Mr. Lowman has been operated on, but the surgeons were unable to extract the bullet.

The operation lasted three hours, and his condition is critical.

Mr. Hodson's condition is still serious, but he shows signs of improvement.

CALCUTTA, August 31.
Mr. F. J. Lowman, Inspector-General of Police, has died.

MARKETS FOR BRITISH PRODUCTS.RECIPROCAL AGREEMENTS
THROUGHOUT EMPIRE.

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

LONDON, August 30.
A reply to the Bankers' Resolution passed at a meeting of bankers and financial houses, which included the Bank of England and the Chairmen of the National, Westminster and Midland Banks that urgent measures to promote inter-Imperial trade are needed to secure and extend the markets for British products, has been issued over the signatures of 116 influential bankers and members of the National Association of Merchants and Manufacturers, and others.

The reply states that the signatories see no reason to suppose that the present trade depression can be remedied by raising Customs duties, thus diminishing foreign trade. It would be little short of suicidal to impose duties which will raise the prices of our supplies of raw material and food, as any stimulus afforded by protection to certain favoured industries could not compensate for such a disaster.

Even if the Dominions were induced to reverse their policy of building up their manufactures by taxing British goods, and lowering their tariffs, their small population would be unable to offer within a measurable time markets comparable with those which foreign countries offer. If Great Britain acted in the manner suggested in the Resolution, a world-wide tariff would be stimulated, and there would be a still greater danger of a breakdown in trade and credit.

The signatories are headed by Viscount Grey of Fallodon, and include Lord Ashton of Hyde, Lord Gainsford and Lord Bradbury, Mr. Walter Runciman, Hon. L. S. Montagu, and Sir Charles Hobhouse, Sir Hugh Bell and Sir Charles Addis.

Summary of Resolution.

A Reuter telegram dated London, July 3, published in the Daily Press of July 5, states that a meeting of bankers and financial houses, including the Bank of England and the Chairmen of the National, Westminster and Midland Banks, passed a resolution that urgent measures to promote inter-Imperial trade were needed to secure and extend the markets for British products.

An immediate step towards this end is for reciprocal trade agreements between the nations of the British Empire. As a condition for securing such agreements, Britain must retain an open market for all Empire products, while being prepared to impose duties on all imports from other countries.

A copy of the resolution has been sent to the leaders of the political parties.

The resolution is of importance politically and economically, as the bankers hitherto have been traditional defenders of Free Trade.

The first fruit of Liberal-Labour co-operation to diminish unemployment is forecasted by emergency legislation to be introduced into the House of Commons next week to speed up the legislative process in connection with projects which are likely to provide employment.

It is expected that the House of Commons will also be asked to vote a considerable sum for the purpose of relief work in necessitous areas, while Mr. Lloyd George's proposal for a large loan to finance public works will probably receive serious consideration.

Members of the House of Commons are faced with the prospect of a curtailment of their summer holidays, as the legislation will probably extend the session to past the middle of August.

TRANS-PACIFIC
FLIGHT.AMERICAN AIRMEN MEET MISFORTUNE.

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

KASUMIGURA, August 29.
The American airmen, Gatty and Bromley, attempted to hop off, but had an unsuccessful take-off, because of the weight of their gasoline.

City of Tacoma Unable to Carry Load.
TOKYO, August 30.
A message from Kasumigaura states that Harold Bromley (navigator), and Harold Gatty, failed to-day in a spectacular attempt to hop off across the Pacific, narrowly escaping disaster.

At 5.29 a.m. Bromley signalled for the blocks to be removed and the monoplane, City of Tacoma, lumbered eastward across the uneven field.

After rolling 1,300 metres it was evident that the plane was unable to lift the 1,050 gallons of gasoline, being handicapped by the soft and uneven runway, together with a cross breeze.

Bromley faced a choice of crashing into some trees 300 metres ahead or of dumping his gasoline, thus enabling his plane to rise. He chose the latter course.

The pilot opened the dump valves of the main tank, and shed 900 gallons in a few seconds. The plane then rose in a trailing plume of white spray, but barely topped the grove at the end of the airfield. It circled and returned to the starting point.

Bromley was very disappointed, and said he was determined to try again, although a re-start to-day is doubtful.

In the meanwhile weather reports are discouraging.

SPLENDID FLIGHTS BY JAPANESE AVIATORS.ENTHUSIASTIC CROWDS
GREET NATIONAL HERO.

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

TOKYO, August 30.
Synchronising with Bromley's misfortune, the Japanese public are gratified at the success of the two flights of their own countrymen, marking a noteworthy advance over the previous Japanese aviation achievements.

Seiji Yoshikawa, flying a light Junker plane, left Berlin on the morning of August 20, and arrived at Tokyo to-day, being greeted by an enthusiastic throng momentarily as a national hero.

For ten and a half days Yoshikawa averaged over 1,000 kilometres daily.

It is claimed that this surpasses the average of Hinkler's flight from Britain to Australia.

Another Japanese Success Awaited.
Zensaku Azuma started from Los Angeles on June 22, and has arrived at Seoul en route for Tokyo.

Azuma flew across America, crossed the Atlantic by steamer, and left Croydon on August 1.

CHARGES AGAINST LABOUR MEMBERS.ENQUIRY INTO GRAVE
ALLEGATIONS.

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

LONDON, August 29.
The National Executive of the Labour Party has decided to hold an enquiry into the charges made by Mr. E. Sandham, M.P. (Liverpool) against fellow Communists.

The Committee will consist of Miss Susan Lawrence (Chairman), Mr. Arthur Henderson, Mr. Tom Lansbury, Mr. Hugh Dalton, and Mr. Stanley Hirst of the Labour Party Executive.

A telegram dated July 31 stated: The House of Commons to-day listened to the rare ceremony of the Speaker on a formal motion of the House admonishing a Member.

Mr. Elijah Sandham (Labour) in a recent speech alleged that certain fellow Labour members accepted bribes and got drunk in the House.

The allegations were discussed in the Commons and referred to the Committee of Privileges, which concentrated its attention on the more serious allegation of bribery and corruption, and expressed the opinion that Mr. Sandham was guilty of gross libel upon the House and deserved censure.

The Committee rejected Mr. Sandham's plea for a full investigation on the ground that Mr. Sandham declined to cite specific instances to support the allegations.

On the motion of Mr. Philip Snowden, to which was carried by 204 votes to 13, the Speaker was called on to admonish the offender, which he did in very solemn tones, while Mr. Sandham sat with folded arms.

ARGENTINA SITUATION.

ARMY AND NAVY BEHIND
GOVERNMENT.

[REUTER'S AMERICAN SERVICE.]

BUENOS AIRES, August 29.
Reports of an impending revolution were freely circulated yesterday, but nothing materialised.

It is now stated that there is no indication that any political body or detachment of the army is joining any insurrection.

The Army, the Navy, and public opinion are securely behind the Government.

A telegram from Buenos Aires published in Saturday's issue of the Daily Press stated that general discontent among the workers, of whom the telephonists have already declared a twenty-four hour strike, led to extraordinary precautions being taken by the authorities.

The Cabinet met specially to discuss the situation at the house of President Irigoyen, the roof of which was bristling with machine guns.

Troops also stood by prepared to intervene.

LOCAL BASEBALL.

JAPANESE SCORE ANOTHER WIN.

On the South China ground at Caroline Hill, the Japanese baseball team scored their third consecutive victory of the season by beating the "Texaco" giants by 11 runs to 5 in a seven-inning game.

The game was full of hard-hitting, many of the batters of both teams sending the ball way out into the outfield for a two or three sack run, while "Big Ben" Zafra had tough luck in being caught out when he sent the ball way past the cinder-track in the third innings. The Japanese fielder did very well to bring off such a difficult catch, considering he had to run backwards for about twenty yards or so to do so.

The "oil-kings" batted first and scored one run in the opening frame to which the Nipponites replied with a quartette, and although they continued to pile on another five in the next four stanzas, the "Texaco" ball-tossers could not even gather a solitary one in reply until the sixth inning when Koga started to dish out a couple of "walking tickets" and they scored three runs. Just one more was all they could do in their last visit to the plate, leaving the Japanese winners by six runs.

These teams met in a rather tame game yesterday when the Chinese crew won easily by 19 runs to six. The standard of play was not very high and the pitching on both sides was very loose. CHINA COMMAND ANNUAL AQUATIC SPORTS.

G.O.C. DISTRIBUTES THE PRIZES.

His Excellency the General Officer Commanding (Major-General J. W. Sandilands, C.B., C.M.G., D.S.O.), and officers of all the battalions stationed here were present at the Victoria Recreation Club on Saturday when the sixth annual aquatic sports of the Hong Kong Area took place.

The events were all very evenly contested and the lusty shouts of the "Tommys" together with the cheers of the ladies and children added to the fun of the afternoon. The Royal Artillery repeated their performance of last year by winning the Aggregate Cup. They totalled 51 points this time against 66 points scored last year.

Well Done!

Before distributing the prizes, Major-General Sandilands said he would like to congratulate the winners and all who had helped to make the afternoon the success it proved. He mentioned in particular the hard work put in by Mr. Roper-Caldbeck, the hon. secretary, and said he would like to thank the V.R.C. for again placing the bath at their disposal, and also Lieut. Comdr. Havers and Messrs. Ellis and G. T. May for their kind help.

Continuing, the General said that swimming was a very good thing and he was very pleased to see so many men taking such a keen interest in it.

Three cheers were then called for Major-General Sandilands and these were heartily accorded.

SOUTH CHINA TEAM BEATEN.

S.A.F.A.'S IMPROVED FORM.

A LATE GOAL BRINGS VICTORY.

The Singapore team which defeated the South China A.C. football tourists in one of the best contested matches of the season, at the Anson Road Stadium, Singapore, on August 24, gave a more promising display than any other combination that has yet represented by the S.A.F.A. for some time.

The visitors gave a surprisingly good display. They had the advantage of having played together on previous occasions, and showed splendid understanding and method. Their combination was good, but they failed when in front of goal, spoiling all their good construction by weak completion. Their halves were tireless, and although up against a tricky forward line, stuck to their hard task with determination, and repeatedly worried their opponents off the ball. The full-backs were the most outstanding players, clearing with good judgment, and displaying sound anticipation. The respective goalkeepers gave a good account of themselves.

The game form start to finish was exciting and hard contested. Both sides started off from the first whistle with determination, and for a time the visitors held the advantage. However, when the Singapore side settled down properly, they proved just slightly the superior combination, and thoroughly deserved to win, although the visiting side were splendid losers. Throughout the match was played in a very clean manner.

South China Start Well.

In the opening stages the Singapore defence had a hard time keeping their opponents at bay, and Ah Kow had to handle on more than one occasion, but the local side soon settled down, and then dealt with the vigorous attack skillfully, finally repulsing the visiting forwards and taking up the offensive.

It was then that the Singapore forwards began to dominate slightly, and they should have scored several goals. Mat Noor was to blame when he was sent through on one occasion but shot wide, while on another Dolfattah sent in a grounder which the visiting goalkeeper did very well to clear. A visit to the other end proved fruitless, and it was not long before Singapore were attacking again.

Singapore were gradually gaining the upper hand, and were rather unfortunate not to take the lead when Dolfattah shot hard for goal, but one of the visiting backs charged the ball away for corner. Shortly afterwards Mat Noor went near with a header. However, the visiting defenders, who were playing effectively, managed to keep the energetic Singapore forwards line at bay, and eventually put their own forwards into possession. A ding-dong struggle ensued, which Singapore got the better of but the half-time whistle found the score-sheet blank.

On the resumption there was little doubting the superiority of the Singapore forwards, although the exchanges were by no means one-sided. With a little more accuracy in the shooting department there is little doubt that the local side would have piled up a good lead. However, when they did get a goal, it was disallowed for offside, Mat Noor being the unfortunate player.

End to end play followed for a time, with the visitors having almost as much of the play as the home side. Ah Kow made a splendid save from Ho Kuan during one of the South China attacks, and a little later Daniels stopped a hot drive from the centre forward. The visiting wing men put the ball across well, and several times caused the Singapore defenders a little anxiety.

Then came Singapore's first goal, the result of a splendid movement. Emanating from the half-line, it culminated with Dolfattah being placed in possession well out from goal. Taking the ball in his stride, he sent in a rasping shot with which the visiting keeper had little chance. The visitors retaliated strongly, but were being well held, when a penalty was presented to them, and Pak Shung made no mistake.

Time was very near, and a draw seemed inevitable, when another movement ended in Dollah getting the winning goal.

Mr. Farwell refereed and the teams lined up as follows—

Singapore—Ah Kow, Ghek Soo and Daniels; Ah Hui, Beards and Donald; Khun Onn, Mat Noor, Dollah, Dolfattah and Mya Fun.

South China A.C.—Chan Sek Pui, Leung Yuk Tong and Lai Yuk Tat; Lai Kwok Chui, Wong Shui Wa and Ho Cho In; Li Hung-Ching, Ho Kuen, Wong Pak Shung and Chan Kwong Lu.

ON MONDAYS

"He can live without love,
What is passion but pining?
But civilized man cannot live without dining."

Owen Meredith.

He used to be rude about the cold joint and allude to it as "Ichabod." And poke the tomatoes about to find one that wasn't squishy, and leave the apple tart's pastry on his plate and talk about heavy handed cooks and

Well you know how things used to be on Mondays... till you thought of that shattering retort, "All right, you buy me a Frigidaire then!"

Of course, he did in the end—and now Monday sees Ichabod metamorphosed into vol-au-vent, since cook's pastry has miraculously acquired a flaky lightness (only because he chills it in Frigidaire before popping it in the oven), and the salad always seems fresh picked, it's so cool and crisp, and everybody wants to know the secret of your household marketing because they've "never eaten such tender steak, my dear" (which, of course, is due to Frigidaire again), and he swears Frigidaire would be worth twice its price if only for the difference it makes to beer, and we could go on for hours like this, but how about you having a Frigidaire of your own? "LINER LADY'S" HAPPY END.

SHIPBREAKERS' CARE FOR OLD SHIPS.

NOTHING WASTED.

That famous liner once known as the Empress of Britain, and later as the Montroyal, has made her last voyage. She has gone to the shipbreakers, and will probably provide some hundreds of men with work for a year.

Formerly a palatial ship of 16,000 tons in regular service to Canadian ports, she carried 2,000 passengers and a crew of 370. To end her days at the shipbreaker's yard is a happy ending, for many a famous vessel has been sold to foreign owners, and from being a "liner lady" has been reduced to ploughing the high seas as a dirty old tramp.

At the shipbreakers these floating hotels are handled with care and respect.

This industry has developed to an astonishing degree. Shipbreaking does not mean chopping up vessels for scrap. It implies dismantling scientifically and economically all the varied materials that make up a liner.

A floating structure that has taken two years to build, and has roamed the seas for thirty years, is still a valuable property, and the recovery of this property means taking her down piece by piece.

She comes to pieces almost as skilfully as she was built. The work is of vast importance, for it conserves to the world many tons of valuable material.

Army of Workmen.

Waste is infinitesimal. The industry regularly employs thousands of men in the recovery of iron and steel for re-rolling, in general engineering work, and in putting into commercial use again thousands of tons of lead, zinc, tinplate, copper, brass, gun-metal, and piping.

In the extensive engineering shops all kinds of machinery are re-conditioned and disposed of to the trade. Thousands of glass porthole covers and windows are taken down whole and find their way back to the shipbuilders.

Timbers, including soft and hard woods, are treated and sold for building, colliery and other purposes. Valuable mahogany, oak, walnut and other fittings and furnishings are placed on the market and find a ready sale.

A vast army of men of various trades and professions is required and an extensive plant is employed to carry out this work scientifically. The latest type of electrically-driven machinery is in use, as well as different kinds of cranes and overhead gantry. Modern electric shears, some with the power of shearing steel plates three inches thick, are in operation, since large quantities are recovered.

In one yard alone the productive capacity of iron and steel scrap averages 100,000 tons per annum.

SLUMP IN THE THEATRE WORLD.

BROMLEY CHALLENGOR'S AFFAIRS.

Mr. Bromley Challenor, the actor-manager, attributed his position partly to the general theatrical slump when the statutory first meeting of his creditors was held at Bankruptcy-buildings, Carey Street, last month.

Mr. Challenor, against whom a receiving order was made was described, as of Porchester-gardens, Bayswater.

It was stated that he had been bankrupt on two previous occasions—in 1910 and 1920—and had obtained his discharge from both.

He had since 1920 produced and acted in various plays in London and the provinces.

His present position was due mainly to the conversion of the connection with the conversion of St. Andrew's Parish Hall, Kensington, into a theatre, to the general slump, and to lack of engagements.

He estimated his liabilities at £1,200, and disclosed no assets. The creditors left the matter in the hands of the Official Receiver to wind it up in bankruptcy.

RUBBER RESTRICTION SCHEME.

BASED ON WORLD STOCK.

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

LONDON, August 30. Miss Lane is discussing the new rubber restriction scheme which, according to the Morning Post, will be determined not on the price but by the world stock level.

The underlying principle is that supplies be curtailed or released according as the world stocks rise above or fall below the agreed "pivot" surplus, which gives a reasonable margin of safety to the consumer, such margin to be provided if stocks are exceeded by three months' supply.

Assuming that four months' supply is a reasonable figure and that the world consumption is at the rate of 750,000 tons yearly, the "pivot" surplus would be 250,000 tons.

OUTLOOK OF BAR SILVER UNCERTAIN.

LONDON QUOTATIONS DECLINE AGAIN BY 1.

LONDON, August 30.—Bar silver quotations here are very capricious, falling again by 1 both for cash and forward deliveries to-day, whereas the witness an abrupt advance by 1/16 on August 18. To-day's quotations were led 11/18 both for cash and forward deliveries.

Commenting upon the silver market during the past week, the weekly letter of Messrs. Samuel Montagu & Co. says:

"China continues to dominate the market and on advice from that quarter, the tone has been firm. The sudden rise and apprehension on the part of bears as to future movements caused a substantial buying to cover forward bear commitments both on China and India account. America has been inclined to work both ways but, on balance, sold moderately.

"The outlook at present is uncertain, the support from China being mainly speculative apparently based on the favourable views of trade prospects, there which has yet to be justified."

SOUTH AFRICA BUYS BRITISH STEEL.

[BRITISH WIRELESS SERVICE.]

RUGBY, August 30. The British Steel Export Association have booked orders with the South African Government for some 5,000 tons of steel material for the construction of rolling stock.

This is the second contract of importance secured from South Africa during the past six months, and the British Steel Export Association regard it as satisfactory as showing the increased competitive power the new combined selling organisation possesses.

AMERICAN OIL MERGER.

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

TULSA (Oklahoma), Aug. 30. A scheme has been drawn up and is awaiting ratification by the shareholders for the amalgamation of the producing, refining and marketing organisations of the Phillips Petroleum Company and the Independent Oil and Gas Company.

Both companies possess joint assets amounting to over $316,000,000.

The new Company will have a lease of 2,600,000 acres with a daily production of about 125,000 barrels.

ATLANTIC AIRSHIP SERVICE.

PROMISE OF DESIGNER OF R.100.

Speaking at a Canadian club luncheon at Ottawa recently, Sir Denistoun Burney, the designer of R.100, said that now was the time, following the successful voyage of R.100, to move forward on a bold scale to further Transatlantic dirigible transportation.

He added, "I am prepared to undertake the construction of a vessel having a cruising speed of eighty-five miles an hour, and able to carry her fuel at that speed for 6,000 miles with 100 passengers and ten tons of mail."

A fleet of such vessels should maintain a regular service between England and North America, averaging two and a half days for the westward and under two days for the eastward passage."

"CRAMMING" DANGER.

EXPERT'S PROTEST.

A strong protest against cramming in schools was made by Mr. Frank Roscoe, secretary of the Royal Society of Teachers, at the London Vacation Course in Education at the Holborn Restaurant last month.

"One of our greatest mistakes," he said, "has been that we have rushed children from subject to subject, giving them too little time for mental digestion."

The old method of a sort of continuous process of cramming is all wrong.

"In the old days it was considered a crime to 'copy,' continued Mr. Roscoe. "No copying" was the class motto. Life in many of those old schools was a kind of perpetual dress rehearsal of the Day of Judgment."

"But is this how we want people to behave in daily life? Do we want them to consider it a sort of crime to help the other fellow?"
